

NEWBERRY LIBRARY UNDERGRADUATE SEMINAR 2010

ISLANDS: MISSIONARIES, MIGRATION, AND LABOR IN THE ATLANTIC WORLD AND ON THE PACIFIC RIM

Application Deadline: September 25, 2009

Image: Jules Tavernier, "Full Moon over Kilauea," 1887.

This 9-credit course provides an opportunity for upper-level students in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences to participate in an intensive seminar and produce an original research project using the world-renowned collections of the Newberry Library. This is an especially important opportunity for students considering graduate study in history or the humanities.

Up to five DePaul students will be selected to participate in this seminar along with students and faculty from UIC, Roosevelt, and Loyola universities. The course will meet from January to May 2010 at the Newberry Library (CTA Red Line Division stop).

Participating DePaul students will earn 9 hours of credit in two disciplines, enrolling in 4.5 credits during winter 2009 and 4.5 credits in spring 2010.

Participation also can be used to satisfy the Liberal Studies "Experiential Learning" requirement.

Admission to the seminar is by application, and spaces are limited. Applications are due to the History Department (SAC 420) by September 25, 2009.

For more information or to apply, please visit the History Department's website: las.depaul.edu/history/studentresources/newberrylibraryundergraduate/index.asp.

Seminar Instructors for 2010:

Lori Pierce, American Studies Department, DePaul University
Erik Gellman, History Department, Roosevelt University